Saddleworth

Cycling in

Getting here with your bike

Public transport

Greenfield Station, on the Huddersfield-Manchester line, makes getting to Saddleworth with your bike easy. Northern Rail provide space for two bikes on their trains and more at the conductor's discretion, on a first come, first serve basis (no booking required).

Car

The borough of Oldham is well placed for easy access to all the major motorway networks. Saddleworth's hills are less than:

- 10 minutes from the M62 (junction 21),
- 20 minutes from the M60 (junction 22 via Oldham Town Centre or junction 23 via Ashton-Under-Lyne and Mossley).

To find car parks in the area check out the council's website www.oldham.gov.uk

Explore Saddleworth on two wheels with some of our exhilarating cycle routes. From leisurely rides along secluded tracks to intense downhill descents, Saddleworth's distinctive countryside offers something for cyclists of all ages and abilities.

Mountain bike escapes

On the edge of the Pennines, Saddleworth is the gateway to the Peak District National Park providing the perfect landscape for any keen mountain bike explorer. If you fancy a challenge then why not give one of the below routes a go?

Diggle Jiggle mountain bike route

This 11 mile circular mountain bike route, offers a gentle ride from Diggle to Greenfield railway station, before embarking on the thrilling hillier terrain around Saddleworth's historic villages.

Length: 11 miles / 17 km, Rough Time: 2.5 – 4 hours.

Saddleworth Cycle and Horse Riding Trail

Looking for a shorter route? Have a go at this trail, which follows a similar route to the intense hilly half of the Diggle Jiggle trail. Following parts of the 'Delph Donkey' trail and Pennine Bridleway, this route gives cyclists a glimpse of Saddleworth's industrial past.

Length: 7 miles / 11 km, Rough Time: 1.5 – 3 hours

Pennine Bridleway

If you're feeling more adventurous, head out along the Pennine Bridleway from Castleshaw across Saddleworth Moor to Denshaw and then onto Crompton Moor where the network of bridleways and purpose built green trail and pump track make it a must-visit spot for mountain bikers.

Length: 7 miles / 11 km with route rising 170m, Rough Time: 1.5 – 2 hours for the more experienced cyclist.

Saddleworth road tours

Saddleworth has a great network of cycle-friendly roads and country lanes. From challenging hills to smooth valley bottom routes, there's something to satisfy everyone.

Scenic road trip 'over the tops'

Make Saddleworth your starting point for a trip over the Pennines following the main roads from Greenfield (A635) past Dove Stone Reservoir and over to Meltham. Then head across to Marsden (B6107) and uphill to Standedge cutting (A62), before enjoying the descent down into Diggle.

Length: 20.5 miles / 33 km, Rough Time: 2-3 hours for the more experienced cyclist

Why not have a go at making your own route. Use the Oldham Cycle Network map and information in the Saddleworth Village trail leaflets on www.visitoldham.com and discover the area at your own pace.

Family friendly cycling

A wide range of flat trails venturing along former railway lines and circular routes around reservoirs make Saddleworth a great place to bring the family for a day out, bikes and all!

Delph Donkey and Saddleworth linear routes

These routes offer a traffic-free and relatively flat cycle ride between Delph and Greenfield (or Mossley) train stations. The Delph Donkey runs between this quaint village and Saddleworth viaduct on the edge of Uppermill. Don't miss the opportunity to call in at the BMX and skate park at Churchill Playing Fields for some jumps and tricks on your way past.

Length: Delph Donkey 1 mile / 1.6 km; Pennine Bridleway approx 2 miles / 3.2km, Rough Time: 1.5 hours (to cycle both routes)

Dove Stone Reservoir

This two mile circular multi-user track around the main reservoir is a great place to take younger children cycling, especially with all the birds and animals to watch on the way round and an ice-cream van at the end!

Length: 2.5 miles, Rough Time: 1 hour

Grotton to Leesbrook Nature Park

Your kids will love cycling along this route, especially when they come to the story trail based on the book "We're going on a bear hunt". This traffic free route is perfect for families with bridleways across Leesbrook offering a chance to explore adventure play areas, ponds, woods, wildflower meadows and more.

Length: 1 miles / 1.6 km, Rough Time: 30 – 45 minutes
